Iowa Accountability Program

SAFETY. ACCOUNTABILITY. JUSTICE.

Dear Friends:

The Iowa Accountability Program (IAP) was established to address the disproportionate numbers of African Americans affected by domestic violence. IAP specializes in programming tailored to the needs of the African American community. Specifically, the program works collectively with African American leaders, victim advocates, and members of the legal system.

Today I present to you the 2010 Greater Iowa African American Resource Guide. Since 2006, the African American Resource Guide has listed hundreds of amazing businesses, organizations, elected officials, consultants, services, and places of worship throughout African American communities in Iowa. During these tough economic times, we must continue to support one another. We thank you for your contributions to the Greater Iowa African American Resource Guide and ask for your continued assistance, whether contributing new listings or sharing this resource guide.

For the past few years, several editions of the Greater Iowa African American Resource Guide have incorporated and utilized the resources and connections of African American leaders and community members across the state. Each listing, from elected officials to places of worship, from physicians and surgeons to colleges and universities, contribute to the overall Iowa economy and, more importantly, the overall community. Teaching Iowans about these priceless resources has further connected the community, the state, and the people. My hope is that this will continue for many years and editions to come.

Thank you for reading, and please share the 2010 Greater Iowa African American Resource Guide with family, friends and associates.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Baxter

Director of the Iowa Accountability Program

History of African Americans in Iowa

African Americans have had a rich and influential position in Iowan history. The first African Americans arrived in Iowa around 1838, coming to help settle the territory. Although a Free State, Iowa established strict codes, called Organic Codes, in order to discourage African American migration. Despite restrictions, Blacks continued to inhabit the area however, in limited numbers.

Though the state placed regulations that discriminated against African Americans, many Abolitionists lived in Iowa. Such people participated in the Underground Railroad creating posts all around the state. Many African Americans passed through Iowa on their way to Canada, some staying behind to make their home.

After the Civil War, African American migration increased. Many individuals came looking for jobs, finding work in coal mines, meat packing plants, and railroad companies. Buxton, in Monroe County, was created out of the influx of African Americans towards the coal industry. Although never formally a town, Buxton, an integrated community, was 75 percent African American. While a mining community, many Blacks held professional positions such as dentists, doctors, and lawyers. Buxton and its mining facilities closed in the early 1920's as the mining industry in the area began to collapse. However, the importance of its legacy helped to further African American achievements in Iowa.

The state has also nurtured and educated some of America's most prestigious African American leaders. Such leaders include famous inventor and scientist, Dr. George Washington Carver. Dr. Carver was educated at Iowa State University and is known for his development in agriculture. Frederick D. Patterson, the founder of the United Negro College Fund and former president of the Tuskegee Institute, is an additional student of Iowa State University. In addition, there have been several professional athletes, politicians, and activists that have once called Iowa their home.

Although African Americans currently compose a small percentage of the state's population, many continue to carry the important legacy that has been formed by others before them. As we move on in the future of the state, we may only look forward to additional achievements made by an important component of Iowa's citizens.

African American History in Cedar Rapids: Cedar Rapids received their first Black resident in the late 1800s and early 1900s. Many African Americans came to Cedar Rapids as a result of employment opportunities in a local railroad company. They remained in segregated communities due to strict race codes until the mid 1940s. During this time, racial disputes occurred as a result of discriminatory practices regarding public facilities. These incidents lead to a shift in more equal racial relationships and the establishment of a local NAACP chapter, as well as the eventual opening of facilities after protests.

Population: 98, 845

Percentage of the population that is African American: 9.2%

Nearest City with 200,000 +: Madison, WI (161.4 miles)

Nearest City with 1 million +: Chicago, IL (233.8 miles)

Attractions: River Center/Adler Theatre, Putnam Museum of History and Natural Sciences, Davenport Museum of Art, Vander Veer Botanical Park.

African American History in Davenport: The African American population of Davenport can be traced back to at least the 1830s. Davenport saw two major periods of African American migration: the first, in the years up to and just beyond the Civil War; the second, in the early 20th century. During the 19th century, African Americans fleeing both slavery and the Civil War came to Davenport since it was a major port on the Mississippi river, and ports in Missouri were deemed too hostile to migrants.

In the early 20th century, steamboats paddling up the Mississippi brought jazz musicians and others to river ports as far north as Davenport. Today, the Mississippi Valley Blues Society, headquartered in Davenport, is an organization promoting the knowledge and appreciation of blues music in the Quad Cities area.

African American History in Des Moines: Since its establishment, Des Moines, Iowa, has acted as a hub for economic, cultural, and educational growth for its African American citizens. Some of these achievements include the establishment of the first Iowa NAACP chapter, the National Bar Association, and Fort Des Moines, the first training facility in the nation open to officers of color.

Des Moines is also home of Susan M. Brown, a nationally famed leader in religious, political, and fraternal organizations.

Luther T. Glanton Jr., was the first African American Judge in Iowa. Willie Stevenson Glanton was the first African American legislator of Iowa.

James B. Morris Sr., the publisher and editor of the Iowa State Bystander, established the first African American Newspaper West of the Mississippi in 1884. The Iowa Bystander, was featured earlier this decade at the Smithsonian Museum and the White House, and to this day, remains the third oldest African American publication in its existence and the oldest West of the Mississippi.

Gary Lawson, founder of the Iowa Juneteenth Observance, which celebrates the end to slavery in America, spearheaded passage of legislation that was signed into law by Governor Tomas Vilsack on April 11, 2002, designating the third Saturday in June as the official annual observance of Juneteenth in Iowa. Iowa was the seventh state to officially Recognize Juneteenth and now 36 states and the District of Columbia have done so.
